ORDERS TO SHOW CAUSE BRING FORTH EXCUSES

Regular Weekly Session of Court Disposes of Much Domestic Misfortune.

Bertha E. Haynes told District Judge Morse, Friday afternoon, that John R. Haynes flew into a passion when she told him that she should pay his son-in-law money he owed him, and threatened to kill her. The court gave her a divorce and the custody of four children.

The couple was married at Sedalia, Kan., January 20, 1889.

Ada Wisniewski said that William Wisniewski got drunk, beat her and threatened to kill her, and she also was given a divorce. The marriage took place at Toledo, O., May 18, 1901.

Herman W. Horne has a bad temper, often abused his wife, and once threw a book at her while she was in bed, and she was given a decree, the custody of two children and $50 attorney fees and costs. They were married here in August of 1899. Horne is a civil engineer.

The following other interlocutory decrees were granted: Mary E. from Stanley E. Simmons, desertion; maiden name of Schaffer.

Fanny B. from Elmer L. Bachtel, non-support.

John Bendorf said that he does not earn enough to pay Emma C. Bendorf and the six children $50 a month temporary alimony and $25 attorney fees, and he was ordered to pay attorney fees only, and given until next month to pay half of these. Bendorf said that he saw his wife hugging another man through a window one night. John was restrained from going to the woman's house and creating disturbances, but may call at reasonable intervals.

John Lawless, charged with contempt for failure to pay Ethel Lawless alimony, said that he had broken a leg and sprained a knee and an ankle, and that he had tasted liquor once in a while, but was discharged.

Andrew P. Powell, ordered to show why he should not pay Della Powell $50 a month temporary alimony and $25 attorney fees, said that the woman had forced him to marry her and that he had never lived together. He was ordered to pay the alimony and $25 attorney fees when he makes answer to his wife's charges. This is another Farmington mistake.

The following final decrees were granted: Nellie W. from John P. McCone, adultery; Mary E. from Joseph W. Sloan, adultery; Ida S. from Joseph W. Sloan, adultery; Mary A. from Joseph W. Sloan, adultery.

"GIMLET" ONCE MORE PUTS ITS "FOOT IN IT"

The statement in the Herald-Republic that Mrs. D. S. Murray had passed through Salt Lake on the day of her husband's funeral and that there had been a fight between the two is an injustice to the lady, according to her friends. George Y. Wallace, who was for years closely associated with Mrs. Murray, states that the report has caused a great injustice to Mrs. Murray and while their personal friends know full well all the circumstances of the unfortunate death of Mr. Murray, it is unfair to his wife to have such reports published. Miss Mayme Noble yesterday received this telegram from Mrs. Murray:

"Miss Mayme Noble—Your letter received. I am too stunned to know what to say or what to do. But I have written the Herald-Republic demanding of them to retract everything previously published; also wrote you and enclosed copy to you to have you see that my wishes are being carried out. I have been very ill since last Wednesday."

"OLGA MURRAY."

It appears that Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Jevne were on their way east. Mrs. Jevne is coming from Los Angeles and Mr. Jevne is coming from here. She is a sister of Mrs. Murray and resembles her greatly, which has led to the distressing error.

HOROSCOPE
By Cosette.
Saturday, September 10, 1910.

Saturn ascends to vex.
And nations to perplex.

A fiery sign rules and Saturn begins to move into a faction of ancient days to signify "party division, feuds among rulers, trouble in lawmaking assemblies, and divided councils, spoiling the nation."

The ruling sign for the day is favorable to skillful action, speedy decision, quick work, and energetic making it a favorable time to describe new things and promote enterprises.

Travel and exploration are under good aspects and business depending on these should be pushed with all possible energy during this fortunate period.

Reserved and retiring persons should step forward with their ideas today and present them boldly if they have a straightforward and sincere motive behind them.

Today is essentially a practical day, lucky for persons who are practical, discriminating, methodical and energetic. There is, however, a liability to errors of judgment, making it necessary to keep a clear, alert mind during the progress of all work.

It is an ill day for going to extremes of any kind.

It is evil, also, for those who wish to gain applause, praise, easy honors, or other successes desired mainly through vanity.

Prejudices are not likely to lead to any enduring profit under these aspects. Venus rules the day, and is variably in the ascendant, and her power is good for lovers of steady, broad minds, but doubtful for those awayed readily by personal beauty, vanity, wealth or position.

Women's affairs generally are under good rule, but the value are likely to be grossly extravagant, thus financially otherwise, and those who are talkative or inclined to gossip are in imminent danger of inducing in tale-bearing or other conversation that will cause serious trouble.

This is marked by all the signs as an excellent time to hire men.

Persons with this birth date are under the dominance of signs that indicate that they have in reserve the power of great thoroughness, though they do not always develop it.

Children born today are under aspects ruling often for great critical powers with alert sensitiveness to surrounding conditions, making them able to grasp opportunity.

NEW PASTOR WELCOMED HEARTFELT WELCOME

Congregation of First Methodist Church Tenders Rev. Ransom Nichols Reception.

A pleasing entertainment was given at the First Methodist church, Friday evening, in honor of the Rev. Ransom P. Nichols, the new pastor, who arrived this week from Price. A large gathering was present to welcome the pastor.

During the early part of the evening an excellent musical programme was carried out under the supervision of Mrs. C. L. Jacobson.

Judge C. W. Morse delivered a short but entertaining discourse, during which he extended a hearty welcome to the pastor and congregation.

Mr. Nichols in his response said that he was indeed highly pleased to have the opportunity of mingling with his new flock. He spoke of the many kind things which have been said about him since his arrival in the city and declared that he would do all within his power to fulfill his duties faithfully. Later in the evening refreshments were served.

Friday was the sixtieth anniversary of the creation of Utah territory by congress. The bill was passed by the senate September 7 but was not signed until September 9, 1850. However, the news of the passage of the bill did not reach Salt Lake until January, 1851, owing to the almost entire lack of mail facilities. In striking contrast was a message received by a Salt Lake this week. It was from his father and dated in the middle of the Atlantic on board the Cunard Mauretania. It stated when the boat would land in New York and when he would be home in Salt Lake. The message took just seventeen minutes via wireless and Western Union against four months for the message of Utah's creation to cross the continent sixty years before and it makes a striking illustration of the advances in that length of time.

Big Boundary Then.
Utah territory, by the bill, was decided greater in extent than today for it was bounded on the west by California, on the north by Oregon, on the east by the summit of the Rocky mountains and on the south by the thirty-seventh parallel of latitude.

President Millard Fillmore appointed the following officials for the new territory: Brigham Young, governor; B. D. Harris, secretary; Joseph Buffington, chief justice; Perry C. Broelless and Zerahiah S. Snow, associate justices; Seth M. Blair, United States attorney; Joseph L. Heywood, United States marshal. Buffington declining the appointment, Lemuel G. Brandebury of Pennsylvania was named for chief justice.

Governor Young's appointment was signed by the president and by Daniel Webster, secretary of state.
